Andrea,
 Although you are gay, and your attitude everyday pissed me off in Intro. to Business, and you never stop thinking and talking about your "bag friend", I was very happy to meet and get to know you for a lot of fun, I hope you have a good summer + future, and also keep up your grades so you can stay on the "A.G." list. HAH! (I won't even comment on that biased

LAUREATE dedication honors all those people, alumni and faculty, who have upheld the Bearcat tradition of the Hendersonville City School system. We recognize their hard work and achievement which have created the quality of education and outstanding reputation of our schools.

Excellence in sports has always been a goal. These Bearcats from the past played in the old granite gym.

An aerial shot of the high school many years before renovations - where are the cafeteria, Dietz Field, and Bruce Drysdale?

A special thank you to former HHS students and outstanding lifetime Bearcats: Jim Hudson, now an attorney in Athens, Georgia; the Class of '49; Hilliard Staton, the first LAUREATE editor; Col. (Ret.) Lee Scheider; and John Farmer, Assistant LAUREATE Editor-1949- for helping to defray the cost of this yearbook cover. Without their financial support, the production of it would not have been possible. This design was used from 1949 until the mid-sixties.

The Way We Were

The Hendersonville City Schools system developed from no public schools at the beginning of the twentieth century to four school facilities serving approximately seventeen hundred students in 1992. Prior to 1901, when the State Legislature passed a special enabling act, there were no free public schools in the city. This act created the graded school system in the town of Hendersonville. The first classes were held in the old Judson Female College building on Fleming a Third. In 1912 Rosa Edwards School was constructed on Fourth Avenue West on land donated by Judge Mitchell King. Rosa Edwards continued in use until 1972 when all its classes were transferred to the new Middle Grade School on Randall Circle. High school classes were held in both Judson College and Rosa Edwards until 1919, when a two-story residence was acquired for use as a high school on what is now Boyd Park. A bond issue, passed in January, 1925, provided funds for a new building which was occupied in December, 1926. Also, the frame building on Sixth Avenue was replaced as Ninth Avenue School in 1947. That year, 1947, there were three city schools: the high school housing grades one-twelve; Rosa Edwards, one-eight; Ninth Avenue, five-eight; the high school, nine-twelve. Ninth Avenue was still one-twelve. In 1965 Ninth Avenue School became HJHS, and Bruce Drysdale sent its fourth grade to Rosa Edwards.

Through the years special-purpose structures were added. In 1934 a granite gymnasium was built at the high school. A building housing the cafeteria and music room was erected in 1948 ( used until 1992-93). The two-story vocational building was constructed in 1973. A new gym was attached to the old one in 1975.

Thousands of HENDERSONVILLE'S (and other societies') finest have passed through these many doors since 1901. We bid a fond farewell to the Hendersonville City Schools system in this FINAL EDITION.

The Junior-Senior Prom was formerly held in the gymnasium. Only recently has it become a custom to have the prom at locations other than the school.

THE WAY WE ARE IN THE FINAL EDITION

"HHS is the glue that holds together the main pillars that keep this school on top. These pillars are high expectation, respect for diversity, academic preparation for all, a professional and caring staff, motivated students, and an involved community. Over the years I have become more convinced of the necessity for tradition in establishing norms of excellence," Mr. Keith Dalbec commented. Several staff members had close ties with the school. Kaye Youngblood said, "As a student of Hendersonville, a well as a teacher, I have seen the pride and respect which have existed here through all generations of students. Sophomore Trina Moffitt said "The feeling of respect and pride among the student body combines with the strong traditions to make HHS a most special place." Heather Hill expressed a common feeling of all students when she said, "Our school is recognized by others for our pride and outstanding student/faculty relations. No school has as much pride in tradition as we do." We have always been on the edge. In the FINAL EDITION, we still have a touch of class.

Always dedicated to the sanctity of child personality.

Important things to us: block letter H, letter jackets, THE RED AND WHITE, SOCKO, arts, vocations, sports, and of course, the Bearcat.

Although the Bearcat has had many faces, it has always been a symbol of HHS. The supercat can never be missed at a football game.

Hendersonville is always changing and striving for excellence. In the past several years, renovating has given an entirely different look to learning.

The Bearcat paw, always a symbol of HHS, still carries on as it marches off into 1993.

The Bearcat spirit burned brightly as another chapter in the Bearcat book of tradition was being formulated. The students used their various activities and talents to showcase their own interpretation of what it meant to be a BEARCAT. Along with the interpretations came an increase in the cultural intellect of the student body and an outburst of enthusiasm which propelled yet another year.

The beach has long been a great place to go with friends. Nicole Mucci and Karen Steepy enjoyed the summer very much as they took a break on beautiful Hilton Head Island.

Neither dirt nor heat could keep Amy Bracken from her duties. She takes a moment to smile during a mission trip with her church youth group. They renovated a house in a depressed area.

On the annual summer trip, these Keywanettes had trouble removing a caught curling iron while rushing to get Sarah Bratch ready for a night out.

acation?

So Much to Do

So Little Time

Students did anything but relax; summer had no limits! They took advantage of the beach, one of the many camps in the area, or even Governor's School. Some preferred to find challenging ways to earn money. Josh Malpass, who worked on a ranch in Wyoming, explained, "It was the most intense learning experience of my life."

The water attracted many, but many girls had more important matters there. At Myrtle Beach, dancers from Pat's School of Dance competed against dancers from all over the Southeast. Not everyone had to travel to find summer fun. The outdoors provided recreation for campers. BELECHERE and Crabby Bill's were popular. Even when they ran out of ideas, someone could always be found by the high school waiting to hear about the next party.

It was a summer for new experiences: learning to water ski, getting a job, seeing new sights, and meeting new people. Freshmen orientation and senior pictures reminded students of the fast approaching first day of school. Too soon the summer of 1992 faded into memories.

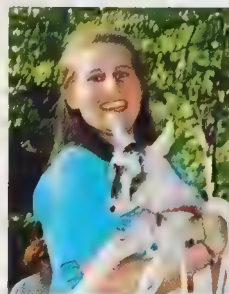

Bungee jumping is fast becoming one of the most popular trends among teens. Heather Hill experienced the thrill of jumping while in New Zealand.

New Summer Experiences

Heather Medd attended Camp Pisgah in Brevard for four weeks as a counselor in training. She holds a kid named Precious.

"The best part of the summer was meeting two new friends from Holland and Scotland at camps. We shared things from our cultures, which are very much alike. They really knew a lot about Americans."

Many students experienced new and exciting activities over the summer. Sabrina Freeman puts on her gear in preparation for an afternoon of parasailing.

Governor's School hosts several of our students every summer. Valdese Jones worked in the area of instrumental music, and she also had time to socialize as she met new people.

The opposing team was intimidated by this threatening banner created by Matt Shipman, Brian Justice, Damien Brockmann, and Weston Woodley.

During the bonfire, everyone takes part in the building excitement being led by the cheerleaders and football team on the field.

At the clubs assembly, Jason Baldwin struggles to escape the examination of his fellow HOSA members: Amy Bracken, Ashleigh Thomas, Amy Norris, and Jon Lamphier. This skit was an entertaining part of the Homecoming Kick-off Assembly.

Spirited teachers and their twins or quadruplets dress alike in their most fashionable attire for Twin Day. Even the faculty got caught up in the events of the week.

CATCHING SPIRIT BEARCAT

Homecoming Week 1992 was a special time dedicated to the spirit of the Bearcat, a symbol of tradition and unity. The week was jam-packed with various activities and spirit, and enthusiasm could be felt all over the campus. Homecoming events began with a kick-off assembly held on Tuesday. Students were seen throughout the week parading around in everything from college attire to hats, ties, and shades for the different dress-up days. On Friday afternoon, classes were dismissed early to decorate the entire campus with streamers and banners. By 3:05 PM the school was a blur of Red and White. Anticipation was building for the football game against the Fighting Cocks of Cocke County, Tennessee.

Unfortunately, the Bearcats lost in a hard-fought battle. Regardless, the week was a huge success. Everyone enjoyed the activities, and they knew the spirit, pride, and tradition of the Bearcat would never fade.

The stands were filled, and the team was rallied as the Homecoming game began. The energy in support of the Bearcats was felt throughout the entire stadium.

"Oh, Man, I couldn't believe it! We could barely hear anything over the band; but, when everyone started clapping, it hit me. This is a huge honor that I will always remember," Richard Douglas, Homecoming King 1992, said after being crowned.

Homecoming was special for everyone in his/her own way. After her first homecoming experience, Haley Turner, the freshman class representative, commented, "I never thought it would be me. It made me feel more confident in the things I do and say." Several members were a part of the court for a number of years. Both Mary O Goebel and Kate Chandler had each been selected by the class once before as sophomore and freshman representative, respectively. Darrell Braswell, the only member of the court to have represented his class for three consecutive years, said, "It's a pleasure knowing that I am a part of HHS history. I hope the winning streak doesn't end next year."

Everyone remembered homecoming in a different way. The anticipation was felt over the entire crowd as the Homecoming Court circled the field. Everyone stood in silence; and, finally, it was announced. The cheering was deafening. Richard Douglas and Kate Chandler were the 1992 Homecoming King and Queen. Kate commented, "When I heard my name, I just couldn't believe it! I was shocked - but felt honored to have been elected. This selection just made my senior year, and it will always be a very special memory for me."

Banners covering the fences displayed the school's pride in the Bearcat and determination to defeat Cocke County.

Pink is definitely Robert "Roberta" Todd's most flattering color. It was amazing how well these representatives fit their roles and walked in heels.

The Senior-Sophomore team celebrated its victory in the powderpuff game with a score of 22-6. Mair Culbreth was the leading scorer.

HUFFIN' AND PUFFIN'

Even the rain could not dampen the excitement felt by the powderpuff players. The results of the long-standing tradition pleased a dedicated crowd when the clock ran out, handing the victory to the Senior-Sophomore Team. Coach Goebel and Coach Norman had the difficult task of preparing these talented ladies with the proper football attitude. The red and white teams had no trouble fitting these roles, and the action met everyone's expectations.

Half-time entertainment consisted of the 1992 Powderpuff Court. The thirteen members and their escorts all seemed to enjoy the opportunity to cross-dress. Trisha (Travis) Then was awarded the title of Powderpuff Queen, complemented by many whistles from the stands.

Talents

Getting Better

All the Time

"HHS has always been known for its diverse abilities and talents," commented Bree McCall. Our talents were always unmatched by other schools, and this year was no different. Students' talents ranged from horseback riding to performances in the spotlight of the stage or on the field of a game.

Many students were known for their abilities in certain areas. Several students played professional tennis while attending high school. J.J. Cramer explained that "with practice, you can excel in anything if you try." Others were recognized for their talents in the fine arts. Don Bodie said, "The Drama Department is small in number but large in talent. Everyone enters Drama II somewhat unrefined but Mr. Orr gives crystal clear images of what the real world is like, and people become more like actors than they have ever been."

Artistic talent is definitely a gift that junior Tyler Jackson possesses. He was known for drawing teachers' caricatures. He also drew the Bearcat paw that is ghosted in this yearbook.

Adrienne Halper concluded, "Active students have always generated excellence in not just one talent but in many different areas. We have won extraordinary numbers of awards ranging from band competitions to recognition in our outstanding academics."

Tennis pros Mary Thym and Ali LaGrange take some time before a tennis match to pose for a picture together. The duo were completely undefeatable as doubles partners.

How have student talents been encouraged?

"Hendersonville High School has an amazing tradition of portraying the talents of its students. Through the liberal arts, we can express ourselves in ways different from the standard classroom atmosphere. As a part of the programs offered here, I have experienced a lot of personal growth in the past three years."

-Catherine Bell

Thomas Sima is caught here working diligently on his writings for the literary magazine. Thomas was a very talented writer; his works were read and enjoyed by students and teachers.

Demonstrating her abilities of horseback riding, Leah Harple is seen here on a horse. Leah could often be found riding in competitions.

Exhibiting her talents in dance, Corinne Gooden is performing in the North Carolina Apple Festival. Corinne has taken dance for many years.

H ot 'n' Now

Keeping up with Demands Of Trends and Fashions

As times changed, students adapted - in style. Trends and fashions were no strangers to any Bearcat. As the year progressed, some of the biggest trendsetters ranged from those who chose to color their hair, not blonde or black, but blue, red, and purple. Many of those who decided to stay natural went long - very long. Numerous girls sported accessories that just seemed to "grow" on you. Accessories were a big hit around campus. Hats, belts, and rugged bookcases were extremely popular.

For those who chose not to accessorize, clothing became a fashion symbol. Guys and girls alike chose to "bum out" in everything from boots to flip flops. Jeans were a fashion must as was the ultra-comfortable denim shirt.

No matter how wild or crazy it got, trendsetting was a challenge that students accepted with great enthusiasm. But, even while trying to keep up, each person retained an identity that made him/her unique.

Most students used bookbags to carry all of their books. There was a variety of brands, such as Jansport and Diamond Brand, from which to choose.

Have you ever seen blue legs with stripes? Luren Dunn came up with a way to make her legs look blue without becoming a smurf.

Short, trouble-free haircuts became fashionable. Jessa Kitakis, Kama Semmel, Iris McGinnis, and Valerie Robinson agreed as they showed off their styles.

It just kept growing! Eloise Collier's, Sarah Violas's, Bambi Thompson's, and Jaclyn Jednak's long locks are equally as lovely as their smiles.

Everyone had a unique style when it came to clothing. Miss Youngblood's class took things a little far by dressing up like Babylonians.

The new styles in hats made Tucker Poorhee's wardrobe complete. Many students wore hats outside as well as inside - when they were not caught.

Who is this masked man? Sometimes students went a little far when it came to hiding those little flaws.

What female at HHS doesn't enjoy "Key Club Day?" Chris Wright added matching suspenders to the regular shirt and tie ensemble

In pursuit of another pretty girl, Chad Hamilton followed Daphne Todd outside. Chad was always in the halls, greeting all the girls who passed by.

I f the Walls Could Talk

Taking a Moment

To be Ourselves

The halls are the only true place where students can catch up on the latest news and relax from the stress of their classes. Last year the time between classes was cut by one minute which gave less time to let frustrations out.

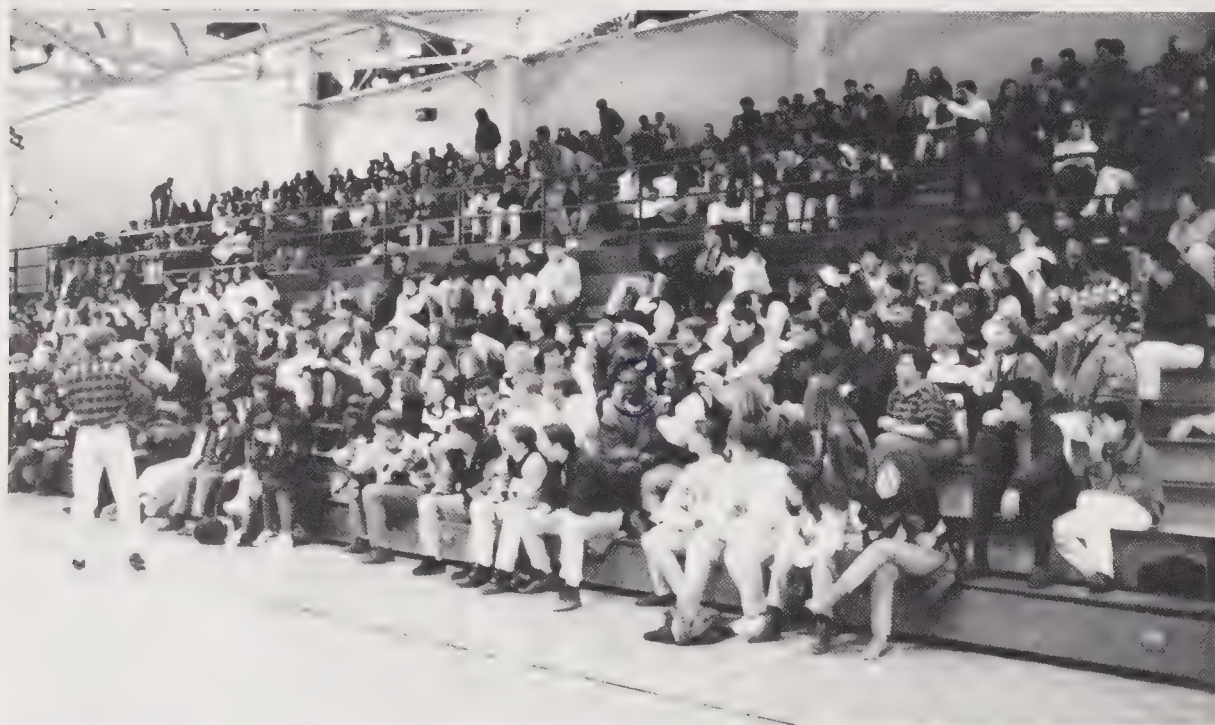

Before school and during break, groups gathered in the halls to share laughter, love, and, as always, some arguments. Although fights were rare, there were usually verbal arguments heard while walking through the hall.

With the new building came new rules. Students were not allowed to eat or drink in the halls and the hall "monitors" made sure that no one entered the building during either lunch period.

Even with the restrictions, the halls still created an environment that students could escape to during the sometimes long and tiresome school day.

When the halls were not available, students had to find other places to hang out. During a bomb threat Richard Douglas entertained with a song.

This group of freshmen seemed perplexed when they came to get their schedules. Surely, in time, it got a little easier for these students.

In a rush to get homework completed before school, A. McClashan, J. Moore, C. Lamm, M. Lovvorn, J. Walker, and C. Skidmore found a spot on the wall to concentrate.

Familiar faces in the first floor corridor during first lunch, this group seems to enjoy each other's company as well as the food.

Even with limited time, Birch Polega, Michael Adams, and Taz Painter talk in the hall while getting their books for the next class.

These guys and girls were no strangers to the second floor before school. Everyone tries to catch up on the latest gossip before the bell.

Bring About

Unity

The world took on a different look this year as giant leaps were taken toward change. In the fall hurricanes swept our South and Hawaii, causing a great deal of damage and loss. As winter approached, the British royal family announced a separation between Princess Diana and Prince Charles. The most controversial Christmas-gift book was released by Madonna. Drastic changes took place in Eastern Europe as Yugoslavia was torn apart and destroyed by the Serbian onslaught on Bosnia. In December the U.S. came to the aid of the starving and helpless people of Somalia, as well as continuing to demand that Iraq and Saddam Hussein comply with UN regulations.

Possibly the most memorable event was November's election. We had not only the Republican incumbent, George Bush, and his Democratic challenger, Bill Clinton, but also a prominent third candidate, Ross Perot. Many people rallied behind the self-made man, who would only "stick to the facts." Bill Clinton won the election and entered the White House on January 20, 1993. America was filled with a new hope for the future.

As well as being the man to help make America take a second look at the economic situation. Ross Perot ventured into comedy with the comment "I'm all ears."

Bill Clinton, who saw all walks of life in his campaign, is at home among the people. He represented a new kind of President, and hope was revived among Americans.

The split of Princess Di and Prince Charles made everyone take a second look at how the royal family can change. On a trip to Canada last year, they were so near and yet so far apart.

Madonna displayed her marketing capabilities by releasing a new controversial book.

Astonishing crimes were committed in Serbia-Herzegovina with the shelling of Sarajevo and rape of the women. All the world was astonished. Here, some children, waiting in a relief center, did not know what lay ahead.

Saddam Hussein continued to challenge the power of the United States with defiance of the no-fly zones. Saddam greets a friendly crowd where he had gained support after declaring Operation Desert Storm to be a holy war.

Hurricane Andrew's wrath was felt all over our South when it swept the country. Many unexpected people were uprooted from their homes, and the endless clean-up and rebuilding process began.

America took a different tact in using its military troops-humanitarian aid. Dying of starvation, Somalis line up for food. The American relief helped to restore order, health, and hope.

Ain't too proud to "Bum!"

work, or

"I think it's fine as long as you plan on paying them back in a reasonable amount of time. I don't mind helping other people out either because they always return the favor."

Beggars

Can't be Choosers

"Hey, Man, can I borrow a buck?" "Look, do you think I could have a ride after school today?" "Did you do your homework; and, if it's right, could I see it for a minute?" Bummin' Moochin' - Beggin' - it was all the same, and we all did it. What better place to find the biggest moochers and bums on earth but right inside the halls of a high school?

Nine out of ten freshmen and sophomores did not drive, so it was a constant battle to find rides here, there, and everywhere. For those who didn't believe it, we asked upperclassmen. Senior Philip Grose said, "I don't mind underclassmen bummin' rides as long as they don't make a habit of it."

As if that were not enough, high school students were the world's worst to beg for money. I guess we all experienced the feeling of empty pockets that tended to hurt the most right around lunch time. So why cry? Just turn to the old buddy with wallet out and start - bummin'.

The most common type of begging, though, that occurred among students was for homework. Call it cheating, but it happened -- and it happened often. We students referred to it as "sharing time." Yes, we, the moochers. We did it every day, shameless as it may seem. We mooched. We begged. We borrowed. We BUMMED.

Money Making Mayhem

Students in the Real World

Many students found it hard to go out without having cash. Most parents loaned only a certain amount of money and then told their children that they were on their own. That sent many students out looking for money, and the only answer that came about was, "Get a Job!"

Students' jobs ranged from apple picking to hamburger flipping. Some worked only a couple of hours a week; others, every afternoon and weekends. "It is nice to have money to spend, but sometimes I work so much, I do not even have time to spend it," commented Sean Beech.

There were some advantages to working. Many found the benefits of their jobs really nice. Some got discounts on items bought from that store, while others received some things for free.

Meeting new people and seeing friends were also added benefits. "Being in the middle of the mall, I cannot miss anyone and no one can miss me," said cookie maker Tasha Childress. Kristen Terebelski added, "I enjoy working at the Park Deli. The people are great, and it gives me a chance to see some of my friends over the summer."

The marketing classes help students learn more about careers. Many of these students are the ones who work during the course of the school year.

Many students find employment in fast-food restaurants. Yolanda Darity worked in Burger King. Having work release made it easy for her to leave school, and the restaurant was a close drive from school.

Many people dream of owning their own business some day. While working at Myrlane Enterprises, Layla Turner had the opportunity to find out what went into operating a business. The experience she gained will be beneficial in the years to come.

Working with children can be a difficult job. Both Heather Hill and Jennifer Ramsey worked at Bruce Drysdale's After-School Daycare Program. Heather is pictured here with the kindergartners and first graders she worked with every day. Can you image them in a few years?

Working on a golf course has its advantages. Keith Kessar appears relaxed as he prepares for a ride on a golf cart.

When relaxing at a friend's house, Reid Schell passes the time and keeps fit by throwing the frisbee.

In the warm-up exercises, these advanced phys. ed. students stretch, trying to increase their flexibility. Many of the athletes took PE to stay in shape during their off-seasons.

Aside from learning new dance steps, members of the dance class participate in aerobics and walking.

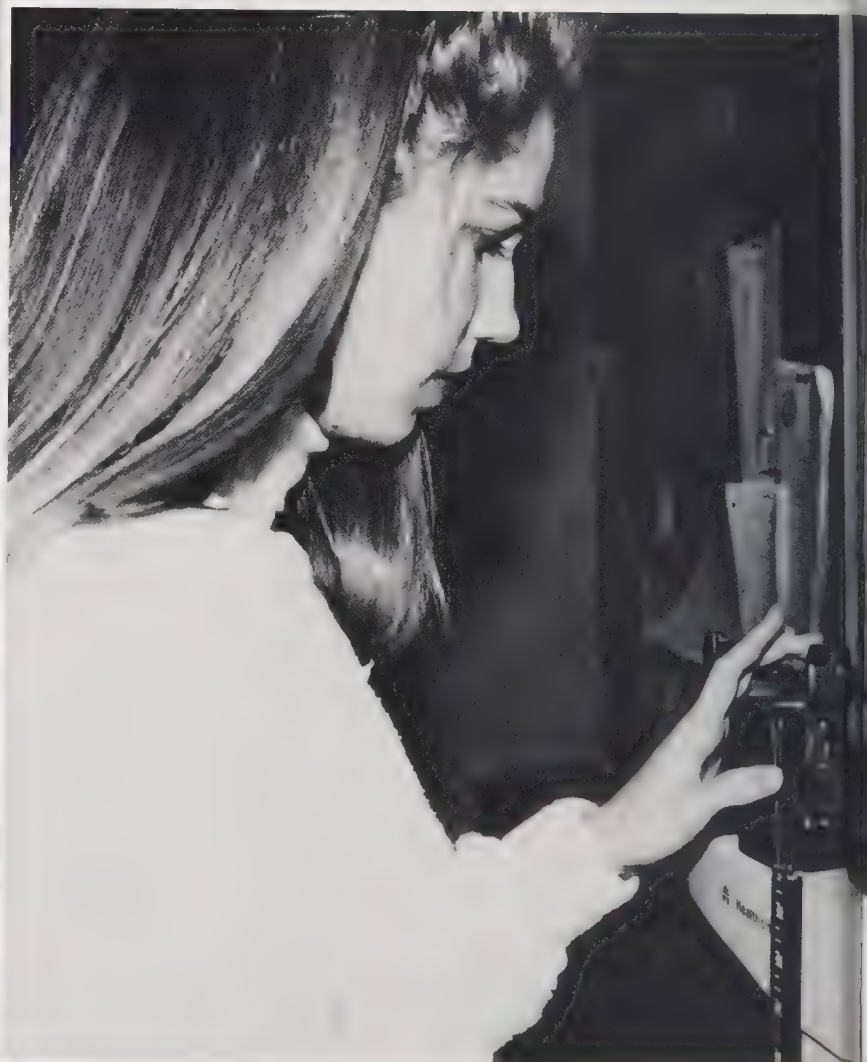

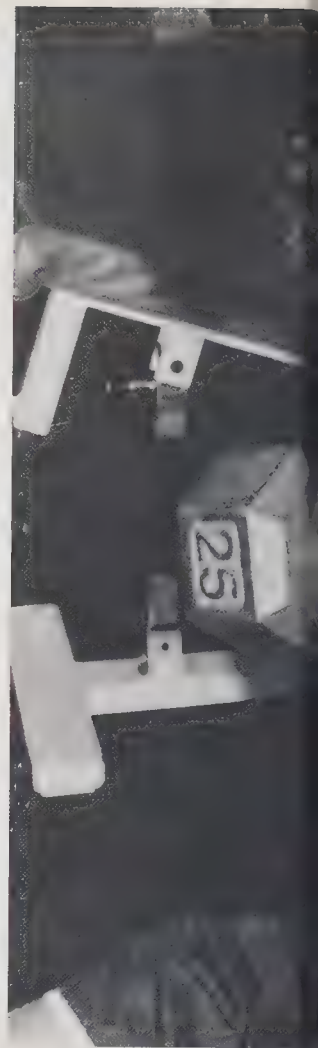

She realized that all of her efforts had paid off when Brooke Chapman stepped onto the scale.

Why is getting in shape important?

"Exercise is important to maintain a physically fit body and good mental attitude. It also increases self-confidence."

-Josh Swanner

Shaping Up

The Latest Trends

Health and Fitness

With the recent emphasis on good health and fitness, students also got caught up in this new trend of getting into shape and living healthier lives. This area offered many attractions to those looking to get into shape.

Outdoor activities ranging from jogging to hiking to mountain biking were popular. Gyms and fitness centers were flooded with memberships from teenagers attempting to tone their bodies by climbing stairs, lifting weights, and relaxing in the whirlpool.

While some chose to sweat off those calories, many avoided them altogether. Proper nutrition is the first step to good health; Jan Anderson and Jamie Spires, sticking to fat-free foods and salads, agreed.

Reasons for these types of punishment and self-denial were split between raising self esteem and impressing peers.

These "mountain men" take a breather from one of their outdoor exertions, hiking and camping, while braving the ten degree weather at Shining Rock.

Will Dewey shows his eye-hand co-ordination and agility while using his hacky sack for fun and fitness.

Fruit and water, one of the most nutritious snacks, helps Tanya King stay trim and healthy. Taking care of one's body, students agreed, requires more than exercise. Good food habits are important.

MISS LAUREATE

Nicole Piscitelli

MR. LAUREATE

Beau Waddell

Hendersonville High School is known for TRADITION. One of the longest standing traditions we have is the selecting of a young lady on the basis of character, capability, competence, and dependability to be named MISS LAUREATE. This year the young lady chosen was one who truly embodies all of these characteristics. The day NICOLE PISCITELLI entered the halls of HHS, the Bearcats had been sincerely blessed.

Nicole has such a positive view on life that she has touched both the faculty and the students with her smile and genuine concern for all those around her. She has dedicated her life to not only striving for excellence herself but also encouraging her classmates to do the same.

In the time that Nicole Piscitelli spent at HHS, she served in numerous capacities, including Vice-President of the Student Body, Secretary of the Student Body, Secretary of her freshman class, Vice-President of her sophomore class, Spanish Club member, Keywanette member, member of the varsity basketball and softball teams and co-captain of the 1991 and '92 North Carolina State Championship Volleyball teams.

As the Bearcat tradition faces changes in the upcoming years, we know certain things will always remain constant. Things such as the mark of NICOLE PISCITELLI. Her determination, dedication, and leadership will continue to live in the hearts and minds of all those she came in contact with.

When thinking of Nicole one not only thinks of her activities, but also of her enthusiasm, dependability, sense of responsibility, and school spirit. It is a sincere honor to have had the pleasure of knowing NICOLE PISCITELLI, MISS LAUREATE 1993.

In the FINAL EDITION, HHS continues the tradition of having excellence in leadership, scholarship, and character as traits exemplifying MR. LAUREATE. Who better displays these traits than Beau Waddell? Throughout his high school career, Beau faithfully gave his time and abilities to help keep HHS successful.

Scholastically, Beau maintained a high grade point average, placing him in the top of his class and allowing him to be a N.C. Scholar. He was inducted into the National Honor Society his junior year; he became president of the organization his senior year. Among his honors, Beau was a Morehead Nominee, a Kiwanis Outstanding Ninth Grader; he was included in the Hall of Fame, Who's Who Among American High School Students, Pursuit of Excellence Award, Block Letter H, and Who's Who at HHS.

Beau was also an active athlete and trainer. He was a member of the 1990 and 1992 State Tennis Championship teams. He served as trainer for the football team each of his four years and was a trainer for the 1992 State Basketball Champions. A small dream had become a reality. Beau wrote after returning from Chapel Hill, "The goal of four years and a dream of five years had been realized on quite a special March day in a town called Chapel Hill. I had a small part of the accomplishment that was for years in the making. Champions!"

Beau was a many faceted leader not only in the National Honor Society but also in Key Club, Latin Club, and Interclub council (president), vice-president of his junior class, Sports Editor of the '92 LAUREATE, Co-Editor of the '93 LAUREATE.

BEAU WADDELL truly earned the title MR. LAUREATE.

SENIORS

Seniority

The clock was literally running out on a group of select people. Unlike the familiar challenges of showing school spirit and of merely surviving bestowed upon past senior classes, this class would lead with an air of responsibility from the first day until the last. The Hendersonville City Schools system had just reaped its final harvest, and the Class of 1993 was the prize crop. From the start there was no question that this class would do what it took to be the best because they were THE FINAL EDITION.

Holly Steirwalt:

"When I walked through the door, the bench was there, casual and observant. The tree is pretty big, sprung and dramatic, at this time green and bold, a mountainous pile of thick leaf and limb, combing from a mole hill of rather small-textured trunk. It played to the bench, giving it all the melodrama it owned. And in turn, the bench was its audience, perhaps even a critic."

"I went over to the bench and sat down. It was a plain bench, weathered by time and rain and cold and sun. Nothing special. A school bench. I like it more than other things in the school. Everything else is brick covered with a coat of impersonality. Coldness. 'You will move on, they say, 'and others will be here. You are nothing special.'"

"The bench doesn't say this. It's not personal, not a very good friend, but it's always there. I come here during lunch. It doesn't greet me. It doesn't have to."

Seniors had their favorite places

Seniors didn't have much free time; but, when they did, they spent it in their favorite places. Both Jason Friebus and Beth Platz enjoyed sitting around the sundial because that's where their friends were. Marc McDaniel said, "My favorite place is in the gym because that's where the Bearcats dominate." Latonya Baker liked to spend time by herself on the steps near the sundial. "My favorite place is homeroom because I can forget about school for five minutes," expressed Jayson Delisle. When Valerie Robinson wanted to avoid teachers, she spent her time in the library. The school really did provide a place for each senior to kick back and do his/her own thing.

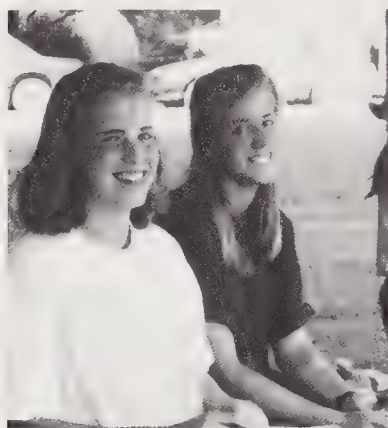

John Van Itallie, Thomas Sima, Bree Miller, Jeana Klein, and Ginny Trice sit on the infamous senior steps. These steps have been a part of the HHS tradition for many generations.

The sundial has always been a place for the seniors to stand and talk. John Luntsford, Holly Steirwalt, Tommy Bakley, Jason Friebus, Chris Ostman, and Beth Platz carry out this tradition.

What a combination! It's trouble when you find these crazy guys together, and worse yet, smiling! But it's not often you'll find Billy Snyder, Casey Tanner, Don Bodie, and Sean Beach together when they're not laughing and smiling over something. The four of them are each unique and full of wit, which makes them pretty wild as a team.

I don't know about you, but it looks to me as if these seniors are up to something suspicious. Adrienne Halper and Leah Harple engage in a little gossip in the shade of the "hot spot" for lunch. It's not often seniors find time to relax and enjoy each other's company, but these mischievous two have managed to escape the hustle and bustle of seniority for a few brief moments.

Looking for a senior? No problem! Just head for the sundial, and you are certain to run into at least a few. Mair Culbreth, Greg Barber, Joey Bayse, Fred Salatino, and Jayson Delisle relax after a tough workout at their favorite senior hangout and yours, the sundial.

Some seniors like to have friends in high places. Roger Whiteside is proud to have his friend William Davis as a member of the working class.

Hey, no PDA! Oh wait - it's Nikki Thomas and Richard Douglas! These two lovebirds rule out school rules. How could you tell those cute faces not to be together as much as possible? Senior relationships seem to be few, but with their record, Nikki and Rich won't join the singles' crowd anytime soon!

Together

"Boyfriends come and go, but friends are forever..." Nikki Thomas replied. This opinion was not a unique one among seniors. Many members of the class, male and female alike, agreed that dating relationships were not as im-

Friendship, however, rated much higher on the priority scale with the Bearcat seniors. Maryanne Garren said, "I think It's safe to say that while many seniors were involved with a boyfriend or girlfriend, the majority of the class felt friendships were more important than dating. Maybe they were more comfortable with casual friendships than serious ones, or maybe they just wanted their freedom. Regardless of the reason, when the case of friendships vs. dating was tried among seniors, the verdict was definitely friends!

As unusual and impossible as it may seem, Tommy Bakley, Josh Malpass, Travis Then, and Will Dewey seem to be deep in thought. Although seniors aren't in favor of thinking any more than they're required, these four "men of the world" seem to be contemplating something deep. Don't worry, they'll snap out of it sooner or later.

Friendship doesn't seem to be an unfamiliar word to these two. Jeana Klein and Ginny Trice can often be found together during lunch or after school, just hanging out. This year's senior class included many such close friendships.

Okay, that's enough. What's so funny? No telling with these three. Connected as Siamese triplets - Katherine Fairey, Amy Norris, and Misty Heffner - are rarely found without each other. Furthermore, they never seem to stop laughing. Sometimes seniors had to laugh to keep from crying, though. So, these three musketeers illustrate a great way to relieve all of those senior stresses!

Seniors take a look into the future

Most seniors had some idea of what their future plans were. Some planned to take a year off to find themselves. Reid Schell explained, "I am going to take a year off to explore life. Then I plan to attend the University of Wyoming in Laramie." Others planned to head straight off to college to get started on a higher education. Philip Grose remarked, "I hope to get a scholarship to play baseball for a college. I would like to play professionally someday." Nicole Piscitelli seemed to have the right idea. "I plan to travel around the world visiting historical places such as the great pyramids of Egypt and the Leaning Tower of Pisa."

Taking a moment to concentrate on school work, Nikki Thomas was one of many seniors who were seen "cramming" for the future.

Looking quite comfortable in front of the class, Nathan Byrd ponders his future as a teacher.

Seniors

set the pace

"The chief responsibility of a senior class officer to underclassmen is to motivate each student to keep the spirit alive," said Mary O Goebel, vice-president. She added, "It is also to show them it is an honor to be a Bearcat." Nicole Mucci, secretary, agreed that the officers' responsibilities, "are to sustain the unified feeling of the Bearcat pride and tradition among our students and to make the last year of high school a very memorable experience."

Optimism, responsibility, confidence, and excellence in academics, arts, vocations, and sports were all traits of this year's senior class. From spirit chains to magazine drives to freshmen initiation, the seniors set the standard of true Bearcat spirit. They motivated the entire school to be the best it could be.

Eddie Ficker, treasurer, summed up his class in their final year by saying, "In our senior year, our class really came together and worked as a unit. We had the spirit and the pride of true Bearcats."

Seniors were not afraid to take risks. This year's officers were Lauren Dunn, president; Nicole Mucci, secretary; Mary O Goebel, vice-president; and Eddie Ficker, treasurer. Did you really want to be behind bars?

Seniors took pride in carrying out the best of the Bearcat Traditions. TRADITION was always held with deep respect. Excelling in academics, arts, vocations, and sports was the serious side. Students' everyday life was not so serious, but it was still tradition bound. Off-campus lunch on Fridays was a tradition as well as a treat. Jeana Klein said, "It's nice to be able to eat real food at least once a week." Among the favorite places to dine were Burger King, Subway,

The Last Class accepts the challenge

A merger between the Hendersonville City Schools and the Henderson County Schools, scheduled to take place in July, 1993, caused numerous emotions among the school and community. When asked about their feelings and responsibilities as the last graduating class in the city system, members of the class had a strong unified outlook: "I believe that our responsibilities as the last class are to maintain our standard of excellence and to take this last year and make our school stand out and be the best it has even been," Layla Turner explained. Tommy Bakley had similar feelings. "As the last graduating class from the Hendersonville City Schools, I think it is our responsibility to set the standard for those involved in the merger next year." Clarence Moss agreed, "I feel that the Class of '93 must set a new standard of excellence for future senior classes.

One thing was certain, no matter what was to happen in the years to come, Hendersonville City Schools would be a tough act to follow.

Members of the last graduating class in the Hendersonville City Schools will long be remembered.

Lunch has always been a time to spend with friends. Eddie Menchaca and Amanda King were no exception as they shared a bite to eat.

Anthony Beau Waddell

As the last graduating class of the Hendersonville City Schools, I feel that it is our obligation to fulfill the standard our school has set - which is a standard of excellence. We need to strive for success in everything we do, whether it be athletics or academics. We need to be remembered as a class that set goals and then attained and surpassed them. The time and effort we have put forth has greatly enhanced the image of our school system. We should be proud of our accomplishments and thankful for the teachers who have instilled in us the desire to take on a challenge and emerge with success.

UNDERCLASSMEN

94... 95... 96...

Even the underclassmen were handed a role to fill. Furthermore, this role required them to strive at greater lengths to preserve the long-standing traditions that may crumble in the coming year. Trying to sneak off campus with seniors, getting initiated, and cheering for their classes at pep rallies were a few of the attempts to maintain a status quo. Presented with this situation, the underclassmen made the best of their time left in THE FINAL EDITION by continuing the school's dominance in the academics, arts, vocations, and athletics.

ophomores ...because we are not freshmen anymore...

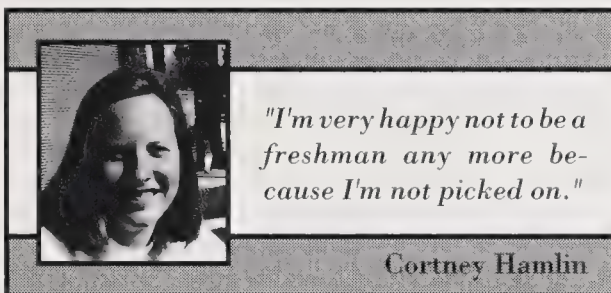

On the first day of school, the sophomores were not thinking about the next three years of school; they were rejoicing in that they were no longer freshmen. They didn't have to bear the traditional taunting by seniors who picked them out, lured them to the torturing grounds, and prepared for "the kill." Instead, they had the "sophistication of sophomores" to uphold.

As sophomores they were expected to know their way around the

...because we are still looking for the fourth floor...

They walked, pale, into the auditorium. Having no idea of what to do, they sat limp in their seats, waiting on upperclassmen to pop out of a corner. Needless to say, the seniors let them live, the first day.

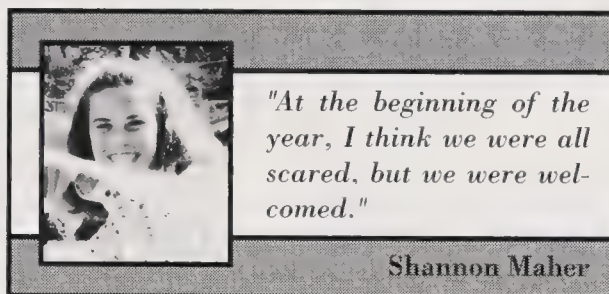

Two weeks later, the day of doom (9/3 - Senior Appreciation Day) arrived. This was the day when seniors took out all their frustrations

Dedicated because we care...

The Life Skills class has had an outstanding trait; they care. This is a special group of students that this school takes pride in. No other group does so much for our campus or helps the school as much as the Life Skill's class.

The students learn vocational training, grounds keeping, wood working, silk screen production, and home and living activities. When asked what their favorite activity is, Scott Redden said that he enjoyed reading, and Josh Story said that he enjoyed P.E. because they were doing weight lifting. Shannon Springs said, "I enjoy the silk screen cards that we are doing." The class makes silk screen Christmas cards to sell within the school system.

These students always seem enthusiastic and willing to lend a hand whenever the school or an individual needs them. The bottom line... The Life Skills class cares.

Bearcat Pride

Bearcat athletics is more than a group of games and practices; it is a conglomeration of all that life has to offer. The perfect balance of opportunity for individual expression held in check by a family of fellowship is one definition. Yet another, the institution where tradition meets technology head on. Finally, the goal of success getting closer with every step and being pushed to a higher level with every championship. These games last only minutes... the memories a lifetime.

Bobby Wilkins:

"To be a Bearcat is something special. The walls of HHS ooze an athletic tradition that can be found no where else in North Carolina. Every year the athletes, through the help of their coaches, accept the challenge of living up to the high standards of being a Bearcat. The combination of this long standing tradition, determined and willing athletes and coaches, and a supportive school system have all brought about the strength in athletics that we have today."

What's Important Now?

Gloomy start...

Brighter ending

The Bearcats 1992 season began with what many football experts called "the most difficult pre-conference schedule in North Carolina." Hard-fought games with bigger schools prepared the Cats for Appalachian conference action.

Joe Hill's three touchdown receptions against Polk County, 38 to 21, helped the Bearcats take the first step toward the crown. Rosman next fell to the tandem of Clarence Moss and John Luntsford who combined for 260 yards and five touchdowns in the 35-13 thrashing of the #8 ranked Tigers. With the conference championship on the line, the Cats became a part of history, playing the last football game at Edneyville High School. In a game filled with emotion, John Luntsford's two-yard touchdown run in the third quarter gave Hendersonville a 21-17 victory and the Appalachian Conference crown.

The road to the 1-A State Championship had to go through Dietz Field this year. The 'Cats had home-field advantage throughout the playoffs, as the Hayesville Yellow Jackets were the first to discover. Roger Whitesides hooked up with Darrell Braswell for touchdown passes of 62, 16, and 78 yards to help take the sting out of the Jackets, 47-6.

East Montgomery's season ended in the rain during the second round of the playoffs, 41 to 28. Jason Baldwin, with thirteen tackles, and Darrell Braswell, who picked off two Eagle passes, were the Cats' defensive standouts. The march through the playoffs ended against Robbinsville, 5 to 14, but Hendersonville surprised everyone but themselves with their success in the second half of the season.

The Bearcats will take the tradition of excellence into the 2-A ranks next year and begin a new page of history.

However, as the year progressed, the team began to get better. We developed a more positive attitude about ourselves and our abilities. This positive attitude helped to carry us to a conference championship and to the division I-A play-offs."*

The soccer team finished this season with a fairly successful record. Tyler Jackson said, "We had a really good team this year, but we lacked experience. This made our season especially difficult, but I'm looking forward to playing next year." Senior Jason Delisle added, "As a generally young team we lacked the consistency needed to be an effective power. I felt that if we could have improved our communication and strengthened our unity we would have had a better chance for success."

The soccer team underwent a few setbacks during the season but still came out with a good record. Garrett Noegel said, "We played well throughout the season, but our youth and inexperience showed in tough games."

conference and were a force to be reckoned with as they competed with the larger teams.

Wrestlers also added a list of amateurs to be broken in by Coach Rocky Rhode. Reid Schell explained, "After

Over the Net & Through the Woods

The cross country and women's tennis teams went into their seasons with a lot of doubt. Both teams underwent the transition of a new coach. "We did well with our new coach, and we improved a lot over the last year," said Aimee Adams. Joey Bayse also added, "The addition of Coach Bolton brought enthusiasm and fun which made us more successful in our meets."

Both teams advanced to the regional meets. Women's tennis recorded a better season than they had seen for the past several years. Candy Romeo explained, "We were successful this year even though our team was young and inexperienced. We hope to do even better next season." The cross country team did well in their season even though their competitors had much larger teams. Leading finisher, Brooke Chapman said, "The girls' cross country team did exceptionally well, considering that we were a small and inexperienced team."

Rebuilding

The Bearcats lost much of their fire power of a year ago. The '92 State Championship team featured Brian Rowe, Bobby Britt, Miquel Lammons, and Jason Thomas all of who went their separate ways at the conclusion of last year.

Returning starters consisted of only two. Point guard Darrell Braswell and forward Eddie Ficker were thrust into leadership rolls at the beginning of this year's season. Behind the tutelage of '92 North Carolina Coach of the Year, Bobby Wilkins, and basketball guru,

THROUGH

Paul Goebel, the team hoped to pick up where last year's team had left off.

The Bearcats opened December fourth at Enka, rated one of the top teams in WNC. Needless to say, the young Bearcats found out that their small size and inexperience was going to be a problem. Following the loss at Enka, the team rebounded with an impressive win against Brevard and then hit a snag. The roller coaster ride was beginning. The 'Cats would lose to East Henderson, destroy T.C. Roberson, avenge a loss to East Henderson and finally lose a highly contested Christmas Tournament Championship to West Henderson.

Following the visit of Ol' Saint Nick, the Cats found that 2-A and 3-A basketball had not gotten any easier over the holidays. Losses to Mt. Heritage and Owen passed slowly, while an exciting victory at T. C. Roberson seemed to fly by.

The Bearcats entered conference play behind the strong performances of senior Gregory Barber and sophomore sensation Quincy Foster. The Cats only managed to win one of the three conference games and posted a disappointing five and eight record at midpoint of the season. The Bearcats would only play one 1-A team in their next six bouts. A thrilling victory at Brevard was thought to be the spark that would put the Bearcats in the winning column to stay, but that was not the case. Injuries would plague the Cats in the final half of the season and only allow them one win going into 1-A ball for the remainder of the year. The thoughts were that the tough 2-A and 3-A competition throughout the season would help when tournament time rolled around.

Taking it To the Hoop

The prospects for the Lady Cats looked bright with all five starters returning from last year's team. With the combination of youth, experience, and a terrific coach, the girls were hopeful of a successful season.

Pre-season injuries forced Amy Pyles and Beth Platz to sit the games out. Nevertheless, the ladies quickly topped the 1992 win total and made it to the finals of the Christmas Tournament.

Led by Valerie Robinson's 12.5 point average and 9.3 rebound average, along with Mary O Goebel's team-leading assists (5.8) and steals (2.8), the Lady Cats hung tough in all their games. The team did not lack experience, nor did it lack talent.

There was no one individual on the team; every player brought something special onto the court. They all worked together, fought together, won together, and lost together. Because of their unity, they were better than the rest; and, no matter what the final outcome, they would always be thought of as winners by the school and their coach.

This season we have been highly successful and the future for the team is looking even brighter."

SIMPLY...

a DYNASTY

A DYNASTY...a ruling family or, in the case of Bearcat sports, the tennis team. Over the past five years, Richard Brown and his "sons" have won four state championships, five uncontested conference championships, and held a three-year-winning streak. All these facts stand alone in the history books of Hendersonville.

This year's family, needless to say, had some pretty big record books to fill. The task would be arduous. Lone senior Beau Waddell and a host of underclassmen led by Keith Kessar, a two-time state qualifier, would keep the opposition in check. The '93 family once again set the Bearcat precedent in athletics.

were hopeful. Will Dewey and Travis Then agreed, "Last year we were young and suffered from lack of experience." Then added, "We learned the principles of the game and will use them to amass a winning season."

Seniors Nathan Byrd, Will Dewey, and Travis Then are proud to be members of the golf team. They planned to lead it to a victorious season.

The schedule ranged from the challenging course of Hendersonville Country Club to as far as Maggie Valley. # TRACK

Run like heck and Keep turning left

Spring not only brought another season to HHS, it also brought many more talents and even more victories. As the Bearcats sprung into the action, the games began. We were known for all types of abilities; track and softball were just two more to add to the list. The track programs were always an honorable mention, and many athletes could be found at state competitions each year. Darrell Braswell, just one of the many talented track athletes, said, "Last year our team was dominated by sophomores. This year should be even better because most of us qualified for and traveled to the state competition at Chapel Hill. The only difference is that this year we are going to win!" Brooke Chapman was also a name that was synonymous with Bearcat track. "With the new additions to the team, combined with the many members that are returning, I believe that this year we will be extremely successful."

A very talented softball team also bloomed in the spring. Coached by Mike Norman, the girls worked extremely hard to demonstrate the excellence of the team. All of the hard work paid off in wins. Venus Miller, a dedicated team player, explained, "With many of the players from last year returning, we plan to work even harder to be victorious, not only in the conference games but also all the way to the state championship."

The Bearcats were unbelievable in all sporting activities so there was no doubt about the abilities of the spring teams. With so much talent the only way to catch a Bearcat was to take a picture.

Sprinting out of the blocks can be tricky. Kelly Christian and Brooke Chapman practiced their starts to ensure them another victory.

SPRING SPORTS

Relays can be fun and rewarding if everyone works together. Billy Bryan and Darrell Braswell were always good partners.

Is this synchronized or what? Kelly Christian and Amy Shipman were so good at hurdles they could do them with their eyes closed.

Handoffs were never a problem for Mair Culbreth, Erin Flynn, and Karen Steepy. They practiced so much they became pros.

"This year's team was full of talent. Coach Pierce is an excellent coach who always pushes the team to do its very best. He expects teamwork and dedication from everyone. We always work together to bring home another victory."

-Chris Wright

The first step of the triple jump can be the most difficult. Lisa Roberts had no problem defying the law of gravity.

WE'RE ALL IN TRAINING

For years now our athletic program has been recognized among many as a powerhouse. Over the past seven years, however, a new branch of athletics evolved to become one of the best in the state. Led by "Doc" Durham, the Bearcats sports medicine program grew to more than fifteen student athletic trainers, each doing his/her own part to make the program a success.

Prevention and care of athletic injuries was the main goal of all trainers. Through the years, this has proved to be a great advantage to our athletes, allowing them more time on the playing field and less time on the injured list. Without the extra help of these individuals, on and off the field, HHS athletics might not have been able to live up to the standards that have been set for us.

ORGANIZATIONS

ACHIEVED with Enthusiasm

They are found on the stage, behind the concession counter, or, better yet, traveling down one of the placid streams of the area. Some carry instruments; others sing aloud. One group dances in step, yet another speaks in "tongues." They all share a common goal: to enlighten the spirit and showcase the zeal found in us all. Who are these people? These are the ones who make up the Bearcat clubs and organizations. The conglomeration of bodies serves to create an outlet through which those who participate may facilitate and declare some of the different dimensions found within themselves.

SETTING THE STANDARD: MAKING US EXCELLENT

There is often a vast amount of space separating an educator and a friend. The diversity lies in the conflicts between such characteristics as discipline, authority, instruction and guidance, companionship, and understanding. But when it comes right down to it, are teachers and friends really so different? Not always. Somewhere in the middle is a happy medium where the separation of these two is not so distinct.

At HHS the faculty-to-students relationships were like none other. The teachers' relationships with their students went beyond the classroom and books, beyond grades and test scores. Students felt comfortable and at ease discussing personal problems with their teachers, and it wasn't out of the ordinary for a staff member and a student to be friends. Heather Medd described her feelings by saying, "Teachers at this school reach out to become friends with their students; this attitude made for a better learning environment."

A new addition to the faculty, Mr. Walt Cottingham commented, "There is an inherent distance between the student and the teacher that comes with the job. However, the educational process is more beneficial if all remember that each of us is human." It was obvious that there would always be differences of opinion and separate interests belonging to the teachers and students; these differences would constantly deny a complete understanding and empathy for one another. The happy medium, however, allowed a common ground to be reached, shared, and enjoyed by both the student and the teacher occupying it. Tasha Childress summed it all up when she said, "There are, of course, those teachers I have crossed paths with that I didn't necessarily want to become my friends, and I'm sure the feeling was probably mutual. Sometimes, though, it is nice to have teachers that you can talk to and that you feel comfortable with as your friend."

HHS has the honor of having its own Sharman Norman holding the title of Teacher of the Year for Hendersonville City Schools. Mrs. Norman is an excellent teacher who has been recognized for her many efforts. The Laureate staff would like to congratulate her for her outstanding job she has done in all responsibilities.

A SPECIAL GROUP

For many years a special group of people helped to keep Hendersonville Schools on the right track. These people established the policies on which our schools operated. Maintaining a strong voice for the City Schools, our school board faced the challenge of merging with the county system, and it came through with flying colors.

Mr. Charles Byrd was named North Carolina Superintendent of the Year (1992-93). Henry Hill, Associate Superintendent, commented, "As a marine he (Mr. Byrd) was as tough as a nail. As a granddaddy he is as soft as a marshmallow. As a superintendent he is as tough as a marshmallow." He did successfully combine toughness and compassion.

THE RULE OF THE SCHOOL

The members of the 1992-'93 Student Council and InterClub Council were very busy. Both groups took an active part in making sure our student government and all the clubs throughout the school ran smoothly. Some students played an important role in both, such as Melissa Bell, who summed it up like this, "Being a member of Student Council has helped me to realize what goes on 'backstage' in our school." Many students were involved in making decisions at our school, and that involvement was what makes us great.

Achieving Our Goals

The National Honor Society is based on scholarship, leadership, character, and service. This year 40 new members were inducted to make a total of 63 members. The Honor Society helps HHS by sponsoring can drives, tutoring students, and selling tickets for athletic events. Coach Bolton said, "The size of our membership proves that our students take their academics seriously and are involved in school and community activities."

The RED & WHITE Staff works hard to achieve their goal of a monthly newspaper. This year the staff consisted of 12 members. The staff was chosen and advised by Mrs. Beverly Russell. "I like working on the RED & WHITE because I enjoy sharing my talents with the student body. Although it is not always easy to develop ideas, I find the rewards worth the effort," said Tyler Jackson.

The Literary Club was also sponsored by Beverly Russell and had a total of 28 members. The Literary Club gave students a chance to create their own stories and poetry and listen to the work of other students. Alex Atkins, who enjoyed reading and listening to other's work said that, "It is interesting to listen to the actual authors reading their own work."

Being a staff writer for the RED & WHITE proves to be very time consuming. Angus Bennett used his creative style to write stories for the school newspaper.

thing that the clubs had that no other could duplicate. According to Robert Todd, "Being a Key Club member gave me the chance to help other people and have fun while doing it." These clubs gave the students a chance to meet people outside of their own circles. Misty Heffner said, "The best part of being a Keywanette is working with the people that you wouldn't ordinarily spend time with."

Every month the Keywanettes gave a special gift to the girl with the most points, and almost every month the same girl won! Robin Valsecchi was a dedicated worker. DECA, an association of Marketing Students, was sponsored by Mrs. Pope. The DECA members worked hard during the football season, sacrificing their Friday nights to run the concession stand. This year two DECA members, Layla Turner and Melissa Bell, were elected to district offices. "As president of Hendersonville High School DECA and president of District 16, I have faced many challenges. The opportunities have been great and the skills that I have learned are very valuable. We have had a fun and successful year in DECA," said Layla Turner.

Mrs. Blackwell sponsored HOSA for yet another year. The Health Occupations Students of America was formed for those students interested in careers in medicine, nursing, or nutrition. "Our national motto is 'The hands of HOSA mold the health of tomorrow.' We try to do what we can in the community to help insure everyone receives adequate health care," commented Amy Bracken, HOSA president. HOSA worked along with the Keywanettes in the blood drive. They also sponsored a paper drive for Helping Hands.

Another occupational club, FBLA, was sponsored by Mrs. Cunningham. The Future Business Leaders of America helped students who were interested in a career in the business world. Members of FBLA competed at the district and state levels in contests in job interview, accounting, public speaking, and business calculations. "The goals of FBLA are to develop competent, aggressive business leadership and to strengthen the confidence of students in themselves and their work. We also try to get involved in our school and community as much as possible," explained FBLA president, Kate Chandler.

SPEAKING FOREIGN THOUGHTS

The language clubs were as active as ever in discovering the cultures of their countries. From the soccer game to foreign feasts, everyone had an opportunity to participate and learn a new way of life.

Patrick Eaton, president of the Spanish Club said, "El Club Espanol has done mostly fun stuff this year. We've had the soccer game and dinners with the French Club. Son los mejores!" The Latin Club has also become more active this year. Co-president, Sky Polega said, "Gradually, over the years, our club has become more active. This year, aside from the soccer game and the Saturnalia, we also began giving programs to make the meetings more interesting and fun. The club is growing and becoming a closer knit group."

The clubs tended to work together more than ever. Adrienne Halper, president of the French Club, commented, "I feel that the French Club exposed members to many interesting aspects of the French culture. The club was productive throughout the year - viewing French films and plays, sampling French food, and taking part in a language festival competition at Western in the spring. We participated in several of these activities with the Spanish and Latin clubs, expanding our knowledge of another country's culture in the process."

Many clubs volunteer much of their time and energy to making our school a success. The African-American Club was created to promote racial harmony among the student body. Volunteens and the Interact Club are two service groups whose members donate time to benefit those in the school and throughout the community. FCA, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, are students attempting to maintain Christian morals in all of their daily activities. Each of these clubs is a great reflection on the entire school. For all they have done, they are to be congratulated.

Each year the faculty was faced with the task of selecting seniors for recognition in WHO'S WHO AT HHS. A nominating committee drew up a slate of candidates; then, each faculty member made his top choices from the ballot. The students chosen made valuable contributions to the school in the areas of scholarship, arts, vocations, athletics, or leadership. The top ten per cent of each graduating class took their places among those who had gone before. As their predecessors had done, students selected focused on their abilities and talents to help build and maintain the standard of excellent.

Elizabeth Platz: Congratulations! You make us all proud.
Love,
Mom, Dad, Brian, and Bill

Ginny Trice: The world is your back yard. Have fun.
Love,
Mom, Brad, Joel, Ike, & Wayne

Maryanne Garren: You have brought joy to all our lives from the moment of your birth. As you start your journey on life's path may you be blessed with love and happiness, health and success! With God's help, we know you can achieve all your dreams. We will always love you.
Dad, Mom and Theresa

John Van Itallie:
Eighteen years of joy and despair,
We watched and waited deep in prayer,
All our hopes and dreams go with you,
As you grow from boy to man.
Love,
Mom and Dad

Amy Bracken: We have always felt the greatest gifts you can give your children are roots and wings. Your footing is solid; you are ready to take flight. We wish you all the best as you meet the future head on. Above all... keep your great sense of humor. We believe in you. Love! always, Mom, Dad, Sarah, Anna, Mary Bess, "Old Mit" and Scud

Jeana Klein: You have always given us great joy. We continue to look forward to watching you grow and mature into an outstanding and wonderful adult person.
Love from all of us,
Mom, Dad, Jen, Ellie, Anna

J. Delisle: Dear Jay, You've always lived up to that knowing smile of yours! You have shined peaceful confidence into our lives and brought us laughter and happiness. Your triumphs in quiet hours and "in the field" make us most proud of you. Our hearts go with you in love and prayer through all that the future holds. Dad, Mom, David, and Karen (Ps. 100:3)

Eddie Ficker: My most wonderful moments have been because of you! I'll miss you much! Life is not always easy or predictable but may yours be rich with experiences and full of love and fulfillment.

XOX,
Mom

Gregory Barber: "Blue eyed Boy, Bundle of Joy, Gregory is his name"

God has given you many talents and our prayer is that "you will be the best that you can be in all you do." Scholar athlete, a loving son and brother.

We love you,
Mom, Dad, & Ashley

Nicole Mucci: You are a beautiful person inside and out. Sharing your dreams, feeling such pride in your accomplishments, watching you grow into a lovely young woman has been the greatest joy for us. Your intelligence, talents, caring of others and determination will pave the way to your success in life. With love and pride,
Your family

Amanda King: We are thankful for you! You have brought us so much joy. We are proud of your values, morals, integrity. Hold fast to these things. We pray that in all things you will "acknowledge Him and He will direct your path." We have confidence you will be a successful and productive person. Be happy! Love forever.
Mom and Dad

Bree Miller: You were a beautiful child and a beautiful young lady.

Love,
Mom, Dad, and Torrey

Lauren Marie Dunn: "Leadership is... courage to correct mistakes, vision to welcome chance, and confidence to stay out of step when everyone else is marching to the wrong tune!"

PICTURE THE PAWSIBILITIES

SHAPE TOMORROW TODAY

Hendersonville High School is entering a new era, an era of great potential and growth. We, the 1992-'93 Student Council, would like to extend our best wishes to the future leaders of HHS in the hopes that the tradition of scholastic excellence will continue. The Bearcat has shaped each of our lives and given us direction. Let us not remain tied to things of the past but step into the future with the confidence and certainty that the lessons of love, respect, and dignity taught to us at HHS will be parts of our lives forever.

Class of 1996

ALL WORK... NO PLAY?

Every day our little class entered our little classroom and heard these familiar but fatal words, "People, we have a deadline!" The class was run by deadlines hanging over our heads and dragging us along.

Sometimes the tension in our room would grow so thick that we could cut it with a knife. Stress was brought about over lost copy, missing pictures, unfinished layouts, and trivial problems such as... "where is that crop stick?"

Life is just a day at the beach for the LAUREATE Staff. The hard workers enjoyed a weekend of "quality time" together as a reward for their accomplishment.

By the time the finished product came out, we almost didn't care. Then, the last ounce of pride let us bask in the glory of the beautiful book that we created. All the nagging paid off. This book symbolized the end of a class and a year and a school system. The LAUREATE staff drew to a close our Final Edition in this school system.

ANDREA, GIRL!
HEY GIRL!
WHAT UP? IT'S BEEN A GREAT YEAR. INTRO TO BUS
WAS A BLAST, AS WAS GEOMETRY, AND LUNCH. WISH WE HAD BEEN
CLOSER. MAYBE NEXT YEAR! GOOD LUCK WITH QUINCY! HAVE A GOOD SUMMER AND COME VISIT ME SOMETIME!
LOVE YA,
JEN SALTZ

Andrea,

How are ya doin'? I have loved geometry & lunch with you. Yamade Geometry bearable & laughable. Have a wonderful summer & I'll see ya' later

Kathy

P.S. You can always come to me for caffeine!

Andrea-
This year has been fun! You know with our men and all their positions!
We've had some good talks about this and that and other things that probably no one would talk about but us. Anyway, I hope I see you this summer and we have another class next year, together. I hope everything works out with "yall!"
♥ Amy cl'g

Andrea,

I think we are going to need to pull some A+L's! NEXT YEAR.
Just think only 2 more years left. I really am happy to hear you love Joe (ya right). Anyway I'm still mad at your friend so tell him to kiss my butt and never talk to me again. No East or West things this year but I do see West the other day. He looked funny.
You need to stop and think about what you do this summer.
Just think next year I can drive to everything so you don't have to beg for the car. You didn't say you liked my hair so I guess you love it. We need to get together some time and have some fun Not as much fun as I had the other weekend. You are my best of friends for Always.

♥-you

Andrea,

Well, well, well. If we were in the car I'd roll ↓ the window, but there's no escaping it in class! <sup>z</sup> The year overcame its obstacles, so far. Free haven is gone forever! No orchards, no locusts, and definitely no paps; bottles! I'm sure our summer will prove to be unique. How long till $10,000?!?
You'll always be my very best friend.

I Love You!
Grina

Andrea,

It's been interesting. I'll never forget you beating the living shit out of Matt & Mike. Good luck in life & I'm looking forward to the ~~Sell~~ Seller picnic in Jamaica (I wish).

Love - Jonah

Andrea,

It's been great listening to your problems on a daily basis. I think I would like soap operas. I would have told you more of my problems but there was nothing to tell. I'll never forget your stunning beauty. Steal something for me this summer.

Love,
Jonathon

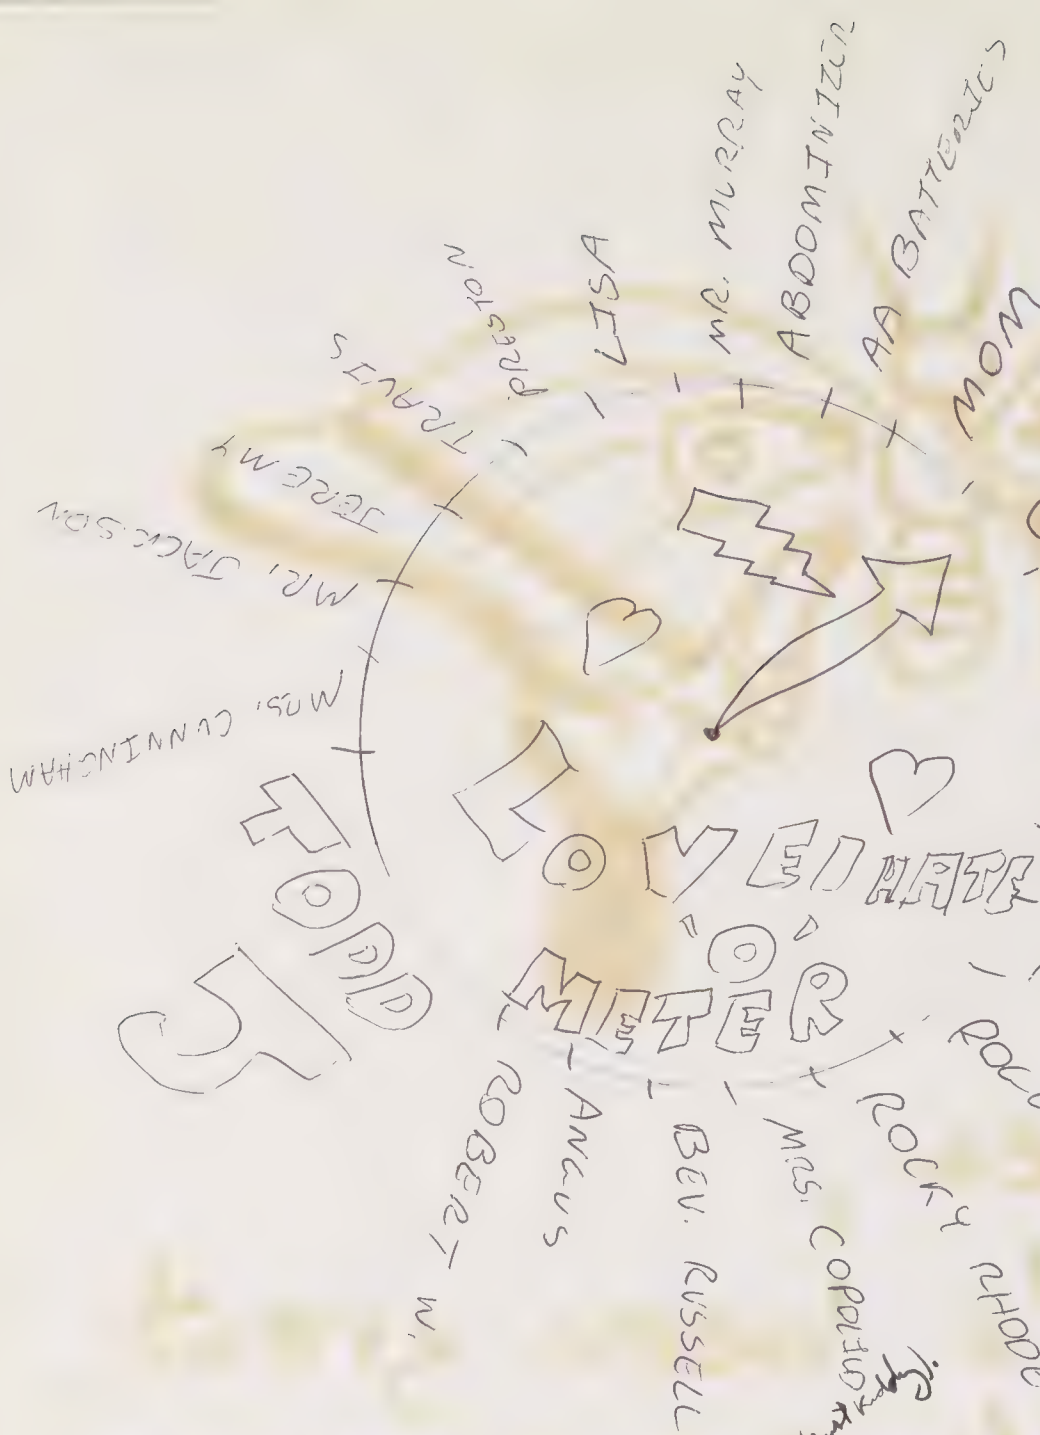

Andrea,
AP's been great,
NOT! Have a summer,
maybe not a good one,
but have one.

RESTON

DON'T KNOW WHO
TO LOVE OR HATE
TODAY? TAKE A SPIN ON THE LOVE/HATE
'O'METER™.
HAVE A GREAT
SUMMER
AND LET'S GET TODD!
-MATT

Hey Andrea,
What a year it's been, but...
AP was better year, right. I know about you + Mike, but your secret is safe with me (+ Mark) (but not kids).
Have a butt kicking, finger licking, wife beating, mistreating summer. You're a neat-o person with a neat-o haircut, so don't change, except for that...
Saddles today + tea - to far now. So long!

Jeremy

Andrea,

Hey! Well, we're getting closer to the date that we leave this heck-hole! Well, I'm really glad we've become closest! Good luck with Quincy and try not to fall apart. Although I know it will be hard! Hope to see you in summer!

Love *
D

Andrea!

Hey Sweetie,
I wish you the best of what ever you may experience and I wish you and yours the best. You are a very kind and considerate person don't ever change. ON the you know were two of a kind and I love you like a sister.

-G-
stay safe! @ den (your favorite neighbor)

ANDREA -

Hey well this year, we HAVE GIVEN each other our share of BEVISSES AGAIN. I'M SURE very kind and considerate we will have person don't ever change. ON the

you know were two TRADITION IN the come over this summer! love

-G-

To my lover (only in Jermaine's eyes) this year has been interesting and full of shocking, thrilling must fun times. I hope that you have a summer to really remember. Full of fine guys, fine clothes and fine anything else! Be careful and be smart. Try to watch out for those spy cameras!

Chillin'!
Peace Out!
Carri-Py

Andrea -

(Jungle Bunnies) - Well, this year I have not seen any strange guys running out of your house. We have not seen each other that much this year but we will make up for it this summer. Don't let any strange guys look in your window cause HAROLD might not always be at home. Well - have fun and (sorry)

Andrea,

You have been a great friend. I hope that next year we can still be good friends. I enjoyed talking to you in biology. It was fun goofing off and making Mr. Murry mad. I hope you have a great Summer. I also hope that your Junior year will be fun and exciting.

It has been great knowing you.

C-ya later.

Love,
Sandy Ktary

Andrea,

Well, this year has flown by - won't be long until we're Seniors :) Basketball was fun - again. Too bad we didn't run into the big rotten banana - Oh well, at least you were able to see Q score his 300th! I know eventually you'll be raking in millions of dollars (HA). So this summer - HAVE FUN! Give me a call sometime. We'll talk. Thanks also for helping me with that little problem - I guess we can't win them all. Thanks for being a friend - be sure to stay in touch.

Love you,
Jennifer

Andrea,

Well, we've made it through another year. You always know how to make my year more interesting. I had fun during basketball. Too bad I'm not doing it next year. Have fun with varsity next year.

Make sure all of those scouts see Quincy. Good luck with Quincy over the summer. Have fun but be careful. Call me this summer.

I've had fun in English this year.

I always get all of the gossip.

Try to pass Geometry next year.

Try to pass all of your classes next year. Have fun and call me to catch me up on all the info. See ya this summer.

Love ya,
Rebecca

P.S. - Don't forget about the time you and _____ came to my house. Even though he got mad, it was still funny.
